Introduction

- Introducing flicktime, the ultimate movie recommendation application
- Hybrid recommendation model using different machine learning algorithms
- Provides personalized movie recommendations based on user's activities and similar users' behaviors

Hybrid Recommendation Model

- Built on two models: neural network and cosine similarity
- Neural network used for collaborative recommendations, trained on `userId`, `movieId`, and ratings to identify the relationship between users, movies, and their ratings
- Cosine similarity model provides content-based recommendations based on features like overview, genres, and popularity
